Day 1-Tuesday, 28 February
“The future of the UN development system.”
Building a stronger UN development system for delivering on the 2030 Agenda

On behalf of the Group of 77 and China I would like to thank the panellists for their presentations. We like to highlight the following aspects:

1. This segment is an opportunity to take stock of the key system-wide strategic policy orientations established by the General Assembly through the recently adopted QCPR resolution. The Group looks forward to discuss how to advance their implementation.

2. The General Assembly resolved that the QCPR should be the main instrument to better position the United Nations operational activities for development to support countries in their efforts to implement the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. This and all other QCPR orientations and guidelines should be embedded in the activities of the entities of the UNDS as a whole, at all levels.

3. The Group looks forward to the upcoming recommendations of the Secretary-General requested by the QCPR, that we trust will reflect the ambition, complexity and the delicate balance of the resolution.

4. We take this opportunity to welcome the Deputy Secretary-General, Madam Amina J. Mohammed, and wish her success in her new role G77 and China will keep constructively engaged with the Office of the Secretary-General on this and other important issues for developing countries.
